The Lykke White candle holder has a smart, contemporary design that can be adapted to suit its surroundings – whether enhancing the atmosphere on a dining table during the dark winter nights or simply providing some lovely points of light during a relaxing bath or an evening barbecue in the garden. Lykke is also easy to move around. You can use the five LED lights together or place them in different parts in the home. Lykke's metal base has a stylish, white matte finish, and the candles with their natural appearance make Lykke a luxurious interior detail. The battery powered LED lights can be controlled individually or by the included remote control. It can even be used as an Advent candle during the Christmas season, as the candles can be lit one by one. Because the LED lights do not have a live flame, they work perfectly as a safe choice for the workplace or other public spaces. If you have several candlesticks from our Lykke and Luna series in the same room, they can be conveniently controlled using the remote control.
